About Us

Formed in August 2022 by former book publisher Rebecca Razo, Coffee Cup Creative LLC is a multifaceted writing, editing, and creative services provider for the publishing and product-development industries.

We specialize in illustrated nonfiction books for adults and children across a range of categories, and we shepherd each project through every stage of the process with thoughtfulness, care, and unlimited creativity. We love brainstorming big, bold concepts that push the boundaries, evoke new ideas, and deliver useful, immersive, and engaging experiences to readers.

Whether you need a team to concept, design, and produce new books for your frontlist, require a developmental editor to update and refresh your backlist, or would just like a bit of editorial or design help, we are ready to collaborate on your next great project in any capacity!

What can we brew for you?

About Rebecca

Rebecca Razo has been a writer and editor for 20+ years, specializing in illustrated nonfiction books and magazines across multiple categories. She is the former Publisher of Walter Foster Publishing and Walter Foster Jr. (part of the Quarto Publishing Group): imprints specializing in practical art, craft, and hobby books for adults and children.

Rebecca is a prolific freelance writer and has contributed to books, magazines, special interest publications (SIPs), guided journals, and more. She is the author of Quiet Los Angeles (Frances Lincoln, 2016) and coauthor of The Daily Book of Art (Walter Foster, 2011). In 2022, Rebecca founded Coffee Cup Creative LLC, an agency specializing in illustrated nonfiction book packaging.

In her free time, she enjoys reading, hiking, traveling, and spending time with her four-pawed furry family members. A Southern California native, Rebecca relocated to the greater Portland metro area in 2020. She considers the PNW her forever home.
